Arovista Park in Brea: Changes with the Times

After recent rains in January, a stretch of Brea Creek running through Arovista Park was filled with flowing water. The waterway divides the two different sections of the public park, located minutes away from Fullerton. A bridge above the creek joins them together. With one entrance at Imperial Highway and another on Elm Street, Arovista Park in Brea is relatively easy to locate, and one of the larger community spaces in the city. It also happens to be part of the City of Brea's latest renovation project, which includes an all-abilities playground.

The land that would eventually become Arovista Park has an interesting history. According to Linda Shay, Executive Director and Curator of the Brea Museum and Historical Society, the land was originally donated to the City by Union Oil in 1939. "It took many years before actual work would begin," said Shay via email. "In 1953, the City petitioned the County to deal with the flood control, which was an issue that held up park construction for years."

Shay explained that on March 21, 1955, the Brea Parks and Recreation Commission presented detailed plans and blueprints to the City Council, and in 1956, the community held several contests to name the park. "Portola was a popular choice, but it was decided that too many folks would mispronounce the name; people still mispronounce it today," said Shay.

After a very long series of starts and stops, Arovista Park was dedicated on July 24, 1964. According to the Brea Museum and Historical Society, renovation began in the mid-1980s and was completed in phases. The last phase was the planting of the Jubilee Grove, 75 trees planted to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the City of Brea. The park's last major renovations were completed in 1992 with a rededication ceremony held on December 5th, 1992. Unfortunately, the majority of the trees that were planted back in the Nineties have not survived. Luckily, new renovation plans call for a replanting of 75 trees in the park's Jubilee Grove.

Located in a historic neighborhood adjacent to the Brea Senior Center and just north of the Brea Creek Golf Course, the now 14-acre public grounds are well-maintained, and mostly known for their skate park. However, I also remember Arovista Park having a lot of free community events. Many years ago, I used to attend free summer movie screenings in the outdoor amphitheater with my family. Volunteers would set up a large projection screen on the wide stage, and display child-friendly films for North Orange County residents to see. Parking was and still is available at two ends of the park: there's a neglected lot at the north end (accessible from West Imperial Highway), and a safer, more populated parking lot near the community center on the east side (accessible from West Elm Street). I would recommend using the parking area nearest to the community services buildings if you plan on visiting.

Featuring play equipment, barbecues, picnic tables, restrooms, baseball/softball diamonds, basketball courts, a volleyball court with a sand-pit, soccer fields, and the outdoor amphitheater, Arovista Park has a lot of room for recreational activities for all age groups. A wheelchair ramp allows for easy access into the park from the lot next to the senior center. There's also a set of steps that start at the corner of W. Elm Street and Sievers Avenue that lead downhill directly to a playground. Positioned in a large sandy area, the current orange and blue painted play equipment is great for children. The playground has a lot of space for kids to climb, swing and have fun, and also happens to be located close to a set of restrooms.

According to the Arovista Park page on the City of Brea's website, as part of their new modernization project, the City is planning to add "the first all-accessible playground in North Orange County, which will provide an opportunity for children and adults of all ages and all abilities to have a safe space to play and enjoy the outdoors." Looking at the "modernization concept" map on the website, it appears that the renovated playground will include new swings along with a hill slide zone and an inclusive play structure with upper and lower access. The planned playground will be larger than the current one and located next to a newly planted tree circle. It also looks like more natural, and structural shade will be added to the area, according to the park concept map. "The recent approval for another major renovation at Arovista...will be extraordinary including an all-abilities playground," said Linda Shay.

Jenn Colacion, Senior Management Analyst in the City of Brea's Community Services Department, explained that the renovation project really started with the community's interest in a unique and all-accessible playground. "Our interest in working with landscape architect David Volz Design was to include multi-sensory features and play equipment that will excite the minds of users of all ages and abilities," she said. "We also wanted a play area that is completely unique to this park site, integrating the park's natural slopes in the playground design."

Following the paved sidewalk from the current playground, down a short set of steps next to a large grassy section, I found a bunch of picnic benches that were spaced out and located close to the outdoor concrete amphitheater. Modestly-sized barbecue grills could be found nearby. When I visited near the end of January, a paved walkway on the other side of the picnic tables followed an open flood channel filled with water from Brea Creek. The path started near the parking lot, wound its way behind the skate park, and followed the waterway, passing by an elongated bridge before continuing onwards to a sand volleyball court. It was at this point that the sidewalk circled back around, past a long basketball court before reaching the playground area and restrooms.

A bridge over Brea Creek met a dual trail meant for both bicyclists and people walking their dogs. On the overcast day that I visited the park, I was able to peer over the side of the bridge and look down at ducks swimming against the current of the continuously flowing stream of water. As Anthony Robert reported for the Fullerton Observer back in September 2022, after passing south of Imperial Highway, Brea Creek runs right through the middle of Arovista Park. One side of the bridge leads to the part of the park containing the playground, amphitheater and skate park, while the other continues onto a paved pathway that takes park-goers two ways around large baseball and soccer fields.

Continuing straight on the path across the bridge will take you behind some batting cages before curving behind the baseball field, past a scoreboard to a shaded area with a variety of trees. It eventually leads to a picnic grove area next to a set of bathrooms. During sports games, I assume that the concession stand is open. On the other hand, if you turn right and head north after stepping off the bridge, you can take a sidewalk that offers more scenic views of Brea Creek. Looking further down and over the fence, you can see several flood control tunnels that lead underneath Imperial Highway.

With connections to the City's downtown via the Tracks at Brea trail system, the 14-acre Arovista Park is worth visiting with family. I'm sure the City's new renovations to the park will help make it an even safer community space in which to enjoy the outdoors. Aside from the playground, other improvements include: brand new restrooms, upgraded sports fields and courts, a reimagined amphitheater for events and performances, four new pickleball courts, an enhanced Tracks at Brea trail to mirror the remainder of the 4.1-mile trail system (since Arovista Park is the official starting point of the Tracks at Brea Trail System), and active adult amenities, such as concrete ping pong and concrete cornhole games. The renovations are expected to take approximately 18 months, with a reopening anticipated for Fall 2024.

"Because this is a 30-year-old park site, other improvements made sense to include in the modernization at the same time and we're excited for the potential of Arovista Park becoming a landmark in North Orange County," said Jenn Colacion. "The remainder of the park improvements keep accessibility in mind as well, which is demonstrated throughout the concept plans." Arovista Park has a lot of room for recreational activities for all age groups and ADA compliant.

PUBLISHED: February 9, 2023 at 9:50 a.m. | UPDATED: February 9, 2023 at 9:51 a.m.

Really big changes are coming soon to Brea's Arovista Park, and I think we'll all be pleased.

The 14.84-acre park, with entrances at Imperial Highway/Berry Street and Elm Street/Sievers Avenue, dates back to the 1950s, and was finally dedicated as Arovista Park in 1964, according to the Brea Museum and Historical Society's executive director-curator, Linda Shay.

The last major renovations to Arovista Park were more than 30 years ago, Jenn Colacion, senior management analyst with the city's Community Services, said at a recent community meeting with 30 people included six elementary-school kids who asked the best questions. They are eager for an updated Arovista Park.

Community Services previously reached out to the sports groups, moms' groups, Boys & Girls Club, seniors, residents and other interested parties about renovating the park.

The only other updates to the park were the amphitheater in 1992 and the very popular skate park, which opened in 2000 and received cool improvements last year, including a reconstructed bowl with a 9-foot drop. An ADA ramp was also added in 2022.

The rest of park is begging to be as cool and fun as the skatepark, and it looks as if that will happen.

The most important aspect of the park renovations is that it will be an all-accessible park, meaning children and adults with disabilities will be able to enjoy the many amenities.

The park's present playground is about 10,000 square feet. The proposed playground will be whopping 34,000 square feet. It will be filled with exciting, colorful play equipment that kids of various abilities, including those needing to use wheelchairs can enjoy.

The safe, fun play equipment will include molded swings, slides, double seesaws and merry-go-rounds for tots to big kids. How about a tight rope or zip lines only about a foot above the ground? The playground's rubberized "dirt" will be easy on little feet and tooshies.

Colorful, large flower-petal sunshades will be scattered throughout the park, playground, sports fields and over the steel pipe slides.

But the most exciting additions will be in the Innovations Zone with sensory-perception play spots where kids' imaginations take over. There will be a Musical Harp with laser beams to make fun sounds and tunes. There will also be a Listening Disc, a vertical, half-dome with audio experiences, plus a little stage for impromptu performances and a rest area where someone feels overwhelmed by it all.

While the playground renovations are tremendous, there are more big changes elsewhere in the park. The sports fields and courts will be upgraded and include shaded dugouts and spectator seating.

A full-size soccer field, new half basketball court and four pickleball courts are planned. Also concrete ping pong, chess and cornhole games for adults, new restrooms, concession stand and storage areas. The amphitheater will also be redesigned and handicap seating included at the top.

The Jubilee Grove of 75 trees planted in honor of Brea's 75th anniversary didn't thrive and will be replaced by 75 new trees along with improved walking paths.

It will take about 18 months to transform the park, said Colacion. Fall 2024 is the anticipated date for the grand reopening. The park will be closed during construction.

The total cost is expected to be about $10 million. So far, the city has secured various funding, including a $205,000 grant from California's Proposition 68 and a $625,000 contribution from County Supervisor Doug Chaffee's office. The remainder is budgeted from the City's Capital Improvement Program, but Colacion said city staffers continue to look for grants and other opportunities to help offset the cost to the city's coffers.

It's a big project, but one that will make Brea's Arovista Park a countywide, designation park.

COMMISSION COMMUNICATION

TO: Honorable Chair and Commission Members
FROM: Chris Emeterio
DATE: 03/22/2023
SUBJECT: Goals Matrix - Progress/Timing Update

RECOMMENDATION

That the Parks, Recreation and Human Services Commission support staff's recommended next steps.

BACKGROUND/DISCUSSION

At their December 7, 2022, meeting, the Parks, Recreation and Human Services Commission adopted their annual goals matrix, which includes various project and program related goals for both the Recreation and Human Services Divisions. Since that time, staff has begun making progress on included projects and is now prepared to share some updates with the Commission. Additionally, staff has made adjustments to when some projects may be completed based on information we have on costs and available funding.

Attached to this report is a copy of the adopted Goals Matrix which has been organized to be viewed chronologically. At the meeting, staff will highlight projects that have been completed, or adjusted ahead of seeking the Commission's support on staff's recommendations.

Special Events

Spring Craft Boutique

The Spring Craft Boutique, will be held on March 17th and 18th at the Brea Community Center from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. on Friday and then from 9 a.m.- 4 p.m. on Saturday. This is the 23rd annual City of Brea Spring Craft Boutique and a popular event and boutique for the community. The boutique will feature over 200 vendors selling unique one-of-a-kind seasonal and year-round gifts and décor, wearable art, jewelry, florals, baby items, tasty goodies and much more for a $2.00 admission. Please come check out this awesome event.

Pet Expo

We are hosting our fourth Annual Pet Expo on April 1st from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. at the Brea Community Center. The Pet Expo will feature over 100 vendors, highlighting pet products, learning opportunities and pet adoptions as well as demonstrations from Anaheim Police Department K-9 Unit as well as the Brea Police Department. The community will be able to see a variety of K-9 techniques, including a drug sniffing drill, dog obedience and simulation bite. This event will cost $2.00 for admission and we hope you all are able to attend this fun local event for the community.

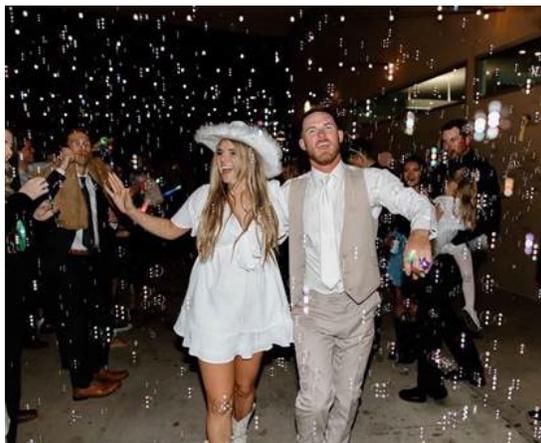

II. COMMUNITY CENTER/RECREATION SERVICES

Operations/Facility Reservations/Contract Classes

For the month of February, we offered some exciting recreation classes for our Contract Classes. Some of the classes included Roblox Studio Lab, Intro to Computer Coding, Anime Art, Tae Kwon Do for Kids, Parent & Me Dance, Horse Fun for Preschoolers & Kids, Ice Skating for Tots & Youth, our various Semi-Private Tennis Lessons and some new, and already very popular Gymnastics classes for youth.

Facility Reservations continues to receive numerous inquiries for indoor and outdoor events. During the month of February, we hosted six weddings, two birthday parties, a baby shower, a Quinceanera, a pre-wedding event, and a celebration of life. Business clients Nordstrom, Excel Academy, and The Phoenix Club also held meetings at the Community Center. Church rental clients, Saddleback, Renew, and Calvary Life Fellowship, continue to meet each Sunday at the Community Center, Civic & Cultural Center, and Senior Center, respectively.

Adult Sports Leagues

February was an action-packed month within our adult sports leagues here in Brea. While our adult sports leagues run year-round, it isn't often we have multiple leagues starting a brand-new season in the same month. Our Women's Volleyball league, Coed Volleyball league, Thursday Basketball league, and Sunday Basketball leagues all finished their winter seasons and started brand new spring seasons in February. Our Women's Volleyball league plays on Monday nights on one side of the Basketball Gym here at the Brea Community Center from 6pm-10pm. Our Coed Volleyball League plays the following night on Tuesdays, utilizing the full gymnasium, running two courts at a time from 6pm-10pm as well. The Thursday Basketball league recently added two new teams, bringing the total to 10 basketball teams playing on Thursday nights from 6-10pm. Our largest league is our Sunday Basketball league, which consists of 22 teams, which takes over the basketball gym after the building closes on Sundays, and plays from 3pm-10pm. Our adult sports leagues are constantly receiving praise for the high-quality officiating, score-keeping, equipment, and playing facilities.

Brea Fitness Center

Brea Fitness continues to increase in memberships, drop-ins, and class participation. Teens, adults, and seniors came together to play basketball, volleyball, "hit the weights," or take a group exercise class. All ages and all levels are getting fit together at Brea Fitness. The Fit Team continues to provide a fun, safe and clean environment for community members to achieve their healthy lifestyles and Make Fit Happen.

Youth Programs

The After-School Program and Teen Zone had a busy month. The kids enjoy daily activity areas: sports in the gym, art studio, game room, playground, and games/hangout time in the cafe on top of study hall time to complete their homework. This month's special treat was cookie decorating and a Puppy Party! The ASP and teen kids loved every moment of it. The program is full for Kinder through 6th, but there is still availability in the Teen Zone. The programs are seeing an average 100 elementary school students and 18 teens a day.

The Tiny Tots part-time preschool aged program's Winter session had a busy February with fun art projects, songs and books based on themes like Valentines, winter animals and Dr.Seuss, on top of their normal centers and learning activities. They had Valentine's Day pizza parties, exchanges valentines with their friends and "heart attacked" the Community Center with hearts.

The Winter session has 79 preschoolers enrolled with a few spaces left in the Senior class. The Spring Session begins March 27th, all classes are full with 1 space currently available in the combo class. We are sure it will be filled by the first day of class.

Important Upcoming Dates:

- April 3-7 – Spring Break Day Camp
- April 12 – Summer Day Camp registration starts
- April 28 – 6th Grade Sneak Preview Night

Brea Resource Center

The Brea Resource Center’s Counseling Program continues to provide affordable counseling to the community. January and February proved to be consistently busy months for the counseling program, which conducted nearly the same counseling sessions!

Counseling Sessions	January 2023	February 2023
Number of Sessions	128	127

Veteran Service Officers Ron Garcia and Gary Colletti continue to provide veteran services to our local veterans at the Brea Community Center and Senior Center. Compared to January, our Veteran Service Officers offered services to two additional veterans. Through their services, both Ron and Gary provide benefit claims counseling and referral assistance to our local heroes!

Number of Precipitants	0 (Postponed)	25

The Brea Resource Center continues its partnership with the Brea Police Department by participating in a weekly ride-along. Together, both departments work towards assisting the City's homeless population by providing resources and offering interim housing.

For the month of February, the Brea Resource Center, which received donations from the public, was able to donate hygiene products, socks, and blankets to our partners at Active Christians Today, PATH Placentia, and Bridges at Kraemer homeless shelters! Donations to these organizations provide immediate assistance and relief to our local homeless population who are critically in need during the cold and rainy months.

FEBRUARY HIGHLIGHTS:

WWII Concentration Camp Survivor

The Brea Senior Center Veterans Group was honored to host a special guest speaker, Charlotte Van Steenberg, a WWII Japanese concentration camp survivor. Charlotte shared her harrowing experiences in the concentration camp, the devastation of her family, the strength of her parents, and their amazing reunion after being liberated by American troops.

She also shared her absolute and wholehearted gratitude to all the military veterans for their service, and for so many who sacrificed their lives for her freedom. It was a beautiful moment that left the room in tears and applauding in agreement. Charlotte also shared a poem she had written encompassing her undying love and appreciation for America, and for all that her family has been blessed with by this Country.

In closing, Charlotte answered questions from the audience, and shared in the related experiences with the rest of the group. She happily took photos, and autographed her book, "I Met God in Hell" for all in attendance. We're fortunate to have Charlotte, and an incredible group of veterans who make up such a special part of our community.

Valentine's Day Party

The Senior Center hosted their annual Valentine's Day Party on Friday, February 17 to a sold-out crowd with a delicious menu of Tri-Color Ravioli with Meatballs, Italian Salad, Garlic Bread, Fruit, and Cream Puffs with Chocolate Sauce for dessert. The dining room was at capacity with 162 meals served in-person, and 9 meals served to-go. Gift baskets donated by a Senior Center participant, chocolate boxes, cash prizes, and gift cards, were all raffled off during the party while the seniors danced away to live entertainment by Anthony Bernasconi.
